Dear Sir

I am greatly obliged to you for your kindness in presenting to this Library a copy of the Catalogue of the R. Coll. of Physicians, and also of the Cains Coll. edition of the Works of Dr Cains. Please accept my cordial thanks.

As to our own catalogue, I regret that only a small part of it (Historical) is printed, & that only to 1912, since when there have been many accessions. Such as it is I am glad to

This Section, Part I., of the Catalogue comprises all printed books in the Library bearing on Naval History. Part II. will be devoted to Naval and general Sciences, and Part III. to Geography. A later section will be devoted to parliamentary and periodical publications, but a provisional list of some of the more important of those relating to Naval affairs has been appended to this volume.

The compilation of the Catalogue has been undertaken primarily for official purposes, but it is hoped that, concurrently with the re-arrangement of the books and the establishment of a Reading Room, the result will also be to render the collection accessible to Officers of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines.

The Library is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (1 p.m. on Saturday). Subject to the convenience of the Department, Officers of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines desirous of studying Naval History will be admitted on presentation of their visiting cards. Other students of Naval history who desire to make use of the Library should make application to the Secretary of the Admiralty, stating the nature of the research on which they are engaged.

Applications for books are to be made on the prescribed form and should briefly specify author and title and quote the press-mark.

By command of their Lordships,

W. Graham Greene

PREFACE.

The principle adopted in arranging this catalogue has been to group first under each subject all works directly connected with the Navy, the remainder being then placed in order according to the degree of their relation to Naval affairs. This method has been modified in the case of Biography.

In each sub-section the books are arranged according to date of publication—or probable date of publication in the case of works without date. Where the date of publication is known, though not given on the title-page, it is placed between brackets. In a few instances where the books are reprints of earlier works they have been placed under the original date as belonging in reality to the earlier period, and the various editions of any work which present no essential differences have been placed together under the date of the earliest edition in the Library.

The more important additions and omissions have been indicated against each issue of the Navy Lists.

Many of the books touch upon more than one of the subjects comprised in this catalogue. Where such books seemed of sufficient importance cross references have been added ; in other cases a book will be found under that heading which most closely concerns the Navy, even though this may not be its primary subject.

To avoid confusion in description of size, all books not exceeding seven inches in height have been designated as 12mo, those between seven and ten inches as 8vo, those between ten and twelve inches as 4to, and those above twelve inches as Folio. The index has not been included in the enumeration of the pages.

THREE SEVERALL TESTIMONIES Concerning the mighty kingdom of Coray, tributary to the king of China, and borthering upon his northeast frontiers, called by the Portugales Coria, and by them esteemed at the first an iland, but since found to adjoyne with the maine not many day's journey from Paqui the metropolitan citie of China. The more perfect discovery whereof and of the coast of Tartaria northward, may in time bring great light (if not full certaintie) either of a northwest or a northeast passage from Europe to those rich countries. Collected out of the Portugale Jesuites yearely Japonian Epistles dated 1590, 1591, 1592, 1594, &c.
